

Explore BunGeo

Just over two hours south of Perth and an easy 20-minute drive from Bunbury, the Ferguson Valley is the perfect country retreat - think picturesque rolling green hills dotted with sheep and cows, interesting craft breweries and stunning family-run boutique wineries.

DAY ONE: PERTH TO FERGUSON VALLEY

Drive to Dardanup to start your Ferguson Valley adventure. Aim to arrive by lunch time and spend a happy couple of hours lingering over lunch at the Dardanup Tavern (aka The Dardy). Before 2pm, pop into the Visitor Centre to buy yourself a Garden Gnome - you'll need that tomorrow. There is a heritage trail you can follow to help you explore the town that starts at the Visitor Centre. Pay a visit to the Fifth Element Glass Studio and Gallery (book ahead). Check into your accommodation.

DAY TWO: VALLEY IMMERSION

Today is a day for exploring the Ferguson Valley. Start at the Dardanup Bakery which is popular with locals and visitors for its authentic woodfired sourdough, homemade country pies and assortment of flavoured doughnuts. From here, drive to the Crooked Brook Forest to the accessible bush walking trail, also a great place to see wildflowers in spring. Next stop, Gnomesville, a quirky place that has the biggest community of gnomes in the world. This is where the gnome you picked up yesterday comes in handy - leave him (or her) there with the other friendly gnomes. Next, the King Jarrah tree estimated to be around 500 years old, and then onto Wellington Dam to see the impressive 8000m² mural on the dam wall. There are some lovely walk trails nearby.

Spend the afternoon back in the Valley exploring local producers including craft beer at Wild Bull Brewery and Italian and Spanish style wines at boutique local wineries. There are plenty of choices for lunch with a view. Green Door offers interesting, black-glass tasting and Spanish varieties, St Aidan Wines boasts award-winning drops and local produce, Hackersley is the place to relax over a lingering lunch, and there's the family-friendly Bush Shack Brewery. Be sure to book ahead.

DAY THREE: WELLINGTON NATIONAL PARK TO PERTH

Start the day at the Dardanup Bakery and buy snacks to fuel you through your morning activities. We suggest you head to Wellington National Park and if you have a mountain bike, check out the trails at Mount Lennard or the Wambenger Adventure trails within the broader park. Or simply, enjoy the walking trails, pools and waterways in the park. Either way, you'll feel invigorated from the natural environment. Drive back to Perth via the Ferguson Valley and have lunch at the Wild Bull or Bush Shack Breweries.
